Forget rabid geeky conversations about 3G and HSDPA. Datawind has just dropped its new PocketSurfer 2, and if you want the 'net while you're down the pub or on the train, then you're going to need one of these bad boys.

Its slinky 15mm frame is dedicated solely to the interweb, but don't let that put you off. There's a full, backlit QWERTY board and a 640x240mm screen. But it's what's inside that's really caught our eye.
